

Inclinx Announces Expansion of Regional Recruitment Manager Enrollment Support Team

Wilmington, N.C. (October 15, 2008) – Inclinx, Inc., a contract research organization (CRO) specializing in clinical trial enrollment solutions, announces the expansion of its in-field Regional Recruitment Manager (RRM) team, including international and multi-lingual professionals. In response to the emergent demand for enrollment experts in the field to assist with difficult to enroll studies, Inclinx has increased the team by 200%.

Regional Recruitment Managers are enrollment experts, clinically experienced across multiple therapeutic areas and trained to develop and execute site-specific patient recruitment strategies. These professionals identify patient recruitment opportunities and challenges both within the site and its adjacent community. In addition to providing hands-on resources to site staff to identify potential study participants, RRM's serve an important role in the continuing education and promotion of studies within healthcare networks supporting and surrounding the site. This unique outreach drives study participation while educating healthcare providers and other patient advocates.

Tobin Geatz, President and CEO of Inclinx says “the industry is demanding new and innovative strategies to solve the day-to-day challenges of patient recruitment.” Geatz further states, “our sponsors know our reputation as experts in patient recruitment, and have easily adopted our Regional Recruitment Managers as a solution to make their sites more productive.”

Regional Recruitment Managers are critical to successful enrollment, particularly in trials requiring special populations, low incidences of disease, or in difficult-to-enroll trials where traditional recruitment tactics may be less effective. In a recent study of a special population, RRM's increased enrollment by 60% over sites not supported with RRM's. On average, sites supported with RRM's exceed monthly screening goals and contribute to successful enrollment milestones.

Inclinx clients have benefitted from successful programs in therapeutic areas including congestive heart failure, pediatric hypertension, post-operative pain and pre-term labor. With the expanded Regional Recruitment Manager team, Inclinx will steadily pursue enrollment challenges that cannot be met by traditional patient recruitment methods.

About Inclinx

Inclinx, Inc. is a CRO specializing in customized Phase I-IV clinical trial enrollment solutions for global pharmaceutical, biotechnology, and medical device organizations. Clients benefit from ten years of experience in multiple therapeutic areas, as well as leading edge technologies that meet the challenge of clinical development from feasibility through compliance. In addition, Inclinx provides strategic medical marketing communications and adherence services to the healthcare industry.

For more information, visit www.inclinx.com.

Press Contact:

Kristin Sacre
Marketing Manager
(910) 332-2682
ksacre@inclinx.com